Forecast For Northern Ireland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 0400 on Thursday 08 Jul 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
A cloudier day on Thursday with patchy light rain.

Today:
A dull damp start to the day with low cloud and some patchy drizzle, fog along the northeast coast. Somewhat drier in the afternoon with cloud bases lifting, but still remaining overcast. Light variable winds. Maximum temperature 19 deg C (66 deg F).

Tonight:
A cloudy evening and night. It will be mostly dry, but a few spots of light drizzle are possible. Winds will remain light and variable. Minimum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Friday:
Another mostly cloudy day, but it will be drier than Thursday with just a few spots of light rain, and brighter too with the odd sunny spell possible. Maximum temperature 21 deg C (70 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
A mostly cloudy few days with light winds. Largely dry on Saturday and Monday with just a few isolated showers. Heavy widespread showers on Sunday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.